

North Dakota's Women 2016

Education

Recently North Dakota Compass, Center for Social Research at North Dakota State University, conducted a statistical overview on the situation of women in North Dakota. Here are a few of the findings.

- » North Dakota women are becoming more educated. The percentage of women with a high school diploma or less decreased while the percentage of women with all other forms of higher education increased.
- » North Dakota women are more likely than men to hold a bachelor's degree (29.7% and 25.2%, respectively).
- » North Dakota women are more successful than men in completing a postsecondary education. Women have outpaced men in on-time college graduation since 2002.
- » Women in North Dakota are more likely to have completed high school than women in the U.S.
- » Women in North Dakota are more likely to have a bachelor's degree than women in the U.S.
- » North Dakota women of color (non-white) are less likely than white women to have a high school diploma.
- » Hispanic and Native American women are less likely to have a bachelor's degree than all other races and ethnicities.

study prepared by:

The North Dakota Women's Network supports leadership, opportunity, and equality for all North Dakotans. Memberships start at $10.

Become a member at ndwomen.org.